

SALVATION ARMY
ASKS $200 MONTH
TO DO WORK HERE

Captain L. N. Phelps Outlines Budget Necessary to Get Results.

A CANVASS IS TO BE MADE

Sum Which is Fixed as Goal is Sufficient to Put an End to All Begging

The Salvation Army needs approximately $200 a month to maintain its headquarters here and do the charity work which has become to be expected of it. This estimate has been made by Captain L. N. Phelps. "We can do it for less, but just so far as the sum pledged us falls below that mark, so will the efficiency of our work suffer."

In round numbers, the Salvation Army needs $2,400 a year. Of this sum, $450 would go for the rent of a hall and headquarters, $100 for light, heat and telephone, $936 for the salary of two officers, $500 for charity, not including the special Christmas treat, and $74 for miscellaneous expenditures.

The two men will receive full pay. Past experience has demonstrated that the Salvation Army officers seldom get all of the allowance to which they are entitled. If the two receive $936 a year it will not permit many extravagances. The full budget would call for monthly contributions aggregating $200. Captain Phelan said:

interested with him do not expect to raise all of this sum in pledges, but they do think it should be possible to get a large part of it, so that the voluntary contributions and offerings would attain the goal set.

Efforts will be made to have the business men agree to contribute stipulated monthly sums. One hundred contributions at $2 a month would Captain Phelps is making a special appeal for householders to be generous in filling the envelopes which he distributed from time to time. He plans to make the distribution every three months.

"If we are properly financed, we can take care of every beggar who comes to town. We can feed the needy and relieve the distress of the poor. In any event we can take care of the fellows who go from house to house begging meals. I wish every housewife, when she receives an envelope, would

BY-PRODUCT EFFICIENCY AND PREPARATION.

The announcement that the United States Steel Corporation will build a 1,500 by-product coke oven at Clifton designed after the latest patterns for the recovery of other by-products of the now valuable residuals known as benzol, toluol and phenol, raises an interesting question in a new form.

The by-product oven has hitherto been a threatened rival of the merchant coke industry of the Conneltsville region. This latest announcement, however, confirms the fact that it is true, and it was foreboded in the annual report of the Steel Corporation, then the latter proposed to set up operations in the Conneltsville area almost within the drift of their smoke.

Is the question one of efficiency or preparedness or both?

The H. C. Frick Coke Company owns 15,000 beehive ovens in the Conneltsville coke region. They produce the finest coke in the world. It is estimated that the process is extravagant in that it does not recover any of the by-products, not even the gases. The H. C. Frick Coke Company is progressive. In its mining practice it probably leads the country. But it was a pioneer in the Conneltsville coke field, and accumulated all these plants before the by-product oven demonstrated its usefulness. The demand for benefit and the other by-products mentioned is not just now and this may have been a moving consideration in the determination to build a plant of 204 ovens. It will be noted that this is the size of the plant to be built at present.

As a matter of efficiency more recent will probably be built in time, and that brings us to the question of preparedness. A majority of the beehive ovens of the H. C. Frick Coke Company will within the next decade or two have exhausted their coal. They are located in the central or northern part of the Conneltsville region. The company has large coal holdings in the Lower region and in Greene county. It will still be possible for it to operate large by-product plants at Clifton and "outgrowth" on its coal in the Conneltsville region. Perhaps that is what the company is preparing to do, and perhaps in time the H. C. Frick Coke Company will become a mining rather than a coking company.

There is a measure of consolation in the thought that the Conneltsville region will continue to furnish the coal, and there is special reason for gratification in the fact that the best coke plants in the neighborhood of Conneltsville will last for many years yet in case, possibly more than a quarter of a century.

THE THOMPSON SETTLEMENT.

The settlement of the affairs of J. V. Thompson is slow but it seems to be progressing surely. The bankers and others who have agreed to act as a Creditors' Committee have been put in possession of Thompson's property and it only remains now for the creditors to assign their claims and deposit them with this committee to take the matter out of the courts and put it into private hands for amicable settlement. This will insure the property against sacrifices and probably guarantee the creditors full settlement of their claims. It does not yet appear who is going to finance the rehabilitation of the estate, but if placed in this position, it will not require much financial support to work things out. The times are propitious right now for the sale of coal lands in large blocks.

The sinking of another boat in the lower Ohio with considerable loss of life brings us to the reluctant conclusion that the dangers of Ohio navigation when the water is deep enough are relatively greater than those of the wide and deep and billowy ocean.

Release of the Deputy Sheriff, Lawrence, makes politicians as well as cokes.

The Conneltsville Chautauqua movement is on again. In the good old days Colonel Bryan himself would have been a sufficient card to have turned the trick.

The trolley gets off the improved roads in these days of fast travel. Such highways mean too much opposition to delay trolley cars.

The groundhog was just one day ahead of the game.

The 8-hour day would, it is estimated, cost the railroads exceeding $100,000,000 per year. The railroads, however, have a chance to pass it on. The Conneltsville coke operators seem to lack that opportunity at least for a considerable period.

If the children and tramps had their way there would not be any shoveling of snow.

The Appom promises to be an Apple of Discord.

Preparedness for Impremation after the European war is imperative for peaceful invasion which this country will welcome. President Wilson is talking about the other kind.

Berlin will settle.

To pay $12,000,000 for the privilege of making a great international improvement is not enough, but to have to spend more money than the United States does many things in the name of the Monroe Doctrine which she would not do otherwise.

This is price night at the Conneltsville Exposition. The show is literally worth going to see.

Looking Backward.

News of the Past Contributed from the Files of The Courier.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1886.

The coke trade is almost completely suspended on account of the strike. There is no material change in the situation except that a few plants in the Dawson-Broadford district resume operations with a limited number of men.

The work of evicting strikers from company houses begins in both Fayette and Westmoreland counties. Incidents also occur at several plants but no serious damage is done. A fresh batch of Hungarians is brought into the region and distributed at work along the Mount Pleasant branch. They work a short time, throw down their tools and make demand for the new wages, the more than their brethren had struck for. The Westmoreland county grand jury refuses the petition of Max Schumacher, Austro-Hungarian consul, to investigate the strike and its causes.

A deal is made between Andrew Carnegie of the Carnegie Steel Company and President Foster of the North Chicago Rolling Mills, which ends the rivalry between these competing steel mill makers. A coke contract originally held by the Chicago Coke Company goes to the H. C. Frick Coke Company, which concern also secures an interest in the Lehigh plant which had formerly furnished part of the supply for the Chicago mills. The proposed construction of a 700 oven plant by the Chicago interests is abandoned.

Late rumor states that Congressman Doyle will endorse John A. McBeth for the Conneltsville postmaster ship.

Dr. G. W. Newcomer and L. E. Angell "done up" Washington City this week.

An addition is made to the Greenland block on North Pittsburg street to provide for Mackell's drug store, removing from Monongahela City. J. P. Driscoll, former driver of Baltimore & Ohio locomotive known as "Four O'Clock," killed in a wreck at Tiffin, O.

A. W. Mellon of Pittsburgh, buys 7,500 acres of coal near Tazewell station for $150,000.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1896.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending February 1, shows a total of 17,547 ovens in the region, of which 15,016 are in blast and 4,931 idle, with an estimated production of 128,000 tons, a decrease of about 1,000 tons from the previous week.

Shipments for the week aggregated 6,978 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 1,647 cars; to points west, 3,180; to points east, 1,255 cars, an increase of 323 cars over the previous week.

"I, the undersigned, give all my right, title, interest and claim over to Mary A. Hoover," was the text of the will made by W. H. Lohr of Bullock, Louisville, and the executor will ever recorded in Fayette county.

H. M. McPherson and Capt. J. M. Duane announce as candidates for election, respectively, Capt. Lloyd Johnston and Wm. S. Bond for county treasurer, and Byron Porter for re-nomination for prothonotary.

J. P. Logwood and John P. Eberhart enter the race for the congressional nomination in opposition to E. F. McKeown, who seeks re-election.

William Herzberger, the Main street merchant, shipped quietly to New York and was married.

The blood curdling yell of the victim bring the boy's father on the scene and the crowd suddenly disperses to assemble later in the day at the police office when they are placed under bail for court.

Fire Marshal William McCormick appears before county and trustees to resign and take the house companies with him if the allegations of inefficiency of the fire fighters are not withdrawn. County counsel yields and eagerly promises "bail" to give the house companies new quarters, new furniture and new carpets, and almost everything it was thought they could use.

Druggists report a great run on quinine pills.

George Frechard devises a scheme to convert the town clock fund by selling keys to a chest of silverware.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1906.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending February 3 shows 23,212 ovens in the region, of which 22,132 are in blast, and 1,121 idle, with an estimated production of 233,000 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregated 14,472 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 4,278 cars; to points west, 7,735 cars; to points east, 2,459 cars.

Large Stocks of Cotton Fabrics.

The Union Supply Company has anticipated the advance in price of cotton goods and has purchased hundreds of pieces of all kinds of fabrics at the regular prices. All cotton goods are advancing to record-breaking prices, and our customers will be given the advantage of our foresight in anticipating this rise. In many lines of goods we have purchased every available piece that was in the market. Prices will not only advance, but it will be impossible to duplicate orders on a large number of fabrics. Our purchases include percales, chevots, gingham, muslins, dress gingham, and all other standard brands of cotton goods. All these will be sold at former prices while they last, and it will be to the advantage of all our patrons to anticipate their wants in these lines.

Our purchases also include thousands of pairs of hosiery, many brands of which will be discontinued when present stocks are exhausted on account of manufacturers being unable to get materials of the former quality to maintain the high standard they have established. All these different lines of hosiery will be sold at former prices, and affords our patrons the same opportunity to purchase these necessary goods at less prices than it will be necessary to pay later on for inferior goods.

Visit the nearest Union Supply Company store—you will find it a profitable place to shop. Our prices are the lowest; the quality of our goods and service is the best.

SCOTSDALE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Scotsdale now has more cases of pneumonia than it has had for some time and probably more than it has ever had at any one time. Only a couple of cases have proved fatal so far, but the question has become a serious one to local physicians who are experiencing one of the busiest times in the history of their practice. Twenty-five of thirty cases are under the care of physicians at this time in this town and surrounding community. Previous to this year pneumonia only at the extremes of life have generally been the sufferers and such a thing as a pneumonia germ was not considered until this time when the country has been swept with it and people of all ages are suffering. Some physicians claim that the pneumonia germ is greatly helped along by such diseases as measles, whooping cough, grip, tonsillitis and the influenza and inflammation of all of the upper air passages. Overworked mind and exhausted condition of the body are also given as aids to pneumonia. To guard against pneumonia people are cautioned against getting in overcrowded cars, theatres and all other public places, to regulate the heat in the home and

HEALED BY CUTICURA
SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I noticed small red blotches and pimples breaking out on my back and arms. The skin was sore and red, and the pimples itched and came to a head. They would itch all the time and I would scratch them. I could not stop at my clothing would rub against the sore places."

"I noticed a Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement in a magazine. I bought a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used it for a few days. The pimples and blotches disappeared and my skin was completely healed. I am now free from the trouble." (Signed) M. Schwartz, 1401 East 8th St., N. B. Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10, 1915.

Colds—whether in the nose or any part of the body—are quickly overcome by using the liver in action and keeping the bowels free of poison. Take Cascarets tonight and you will wake up with a clear head and your cold will be gone. Cascarets work while you sleep; they cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul mucus; into the system from the liver, and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember the quickest way to get rid of colds is one or two Cascarets at night to cleanse the system. Get a 10-cent box at any drug store. Don't forget the children. They relish this Candy Cathartic and it is often all that is needed to drive a cold from their little systems.—Adv.

GERMAN IRON PRODUCTION.

Keeps Pace With Former Records in Face of War.

Germany's production of pig iron in December was 1,020,144 tons, compared with 854,109 tons in December, 1914. This brings the German iron production in 1915 up to 11,790,199 tons compared with 14,253,852 tons in 1914. The production of pig iron by German furnaces from the date of the outbreak of the war, August 1, 1914, for the 12 months following to August, 1915, was 10,135,320 tons.

Furnaces and foundries are said to be working in capacity and are shipping substantially. Demand from allied and neutral countries increasing and prices being satisfactory.

Regulation of Steel Prices Falls.
The British government's endeavor to fix a minimum price for steel is declared to be meeting with such strong opposition that it is threatened with failure. Steel makers held that present high prices of finished steel are justified by the unprecedented high cost of hematite and the high ocean freights which are resulting in decreased Spanish iron ore imports.

COAL EXPORTS FROM U. S. INCREASE; BRITISH DECREASE

United States Coal Exports in All Parts of the World.

Foreign trade reports reveal the fact that British exports of coal to South America show a marked decline, and those from the United States to South America a corresponding increase. Total exports of coal from Great Britain to Argentina in 1915 were 1,601,000 tons, against 2,882,000 in 1914 and 3,454,000 in 1913. To Brazil her exports were, in 1915, 488,000 tons; in 1914, 1,777,000, and in 1913, 1,857,000. To Chile, in 1915, 484,000 tons; in 1914, 375,000, and in 1913, 588,500.

From the United States the exports of coal to South American countries have, in some instances, more than doubled over those in 1914. Argentina leads as the largest consumer of coal from the United States, exports to this country having reached 778,448 tons, against second with 568,315 tons. Uruguay third with 121,887 tons. Other countries, in order of tonnage volume, were: Ecuador, 11,041 tons; Brazil, 5,443 tons; Peru, 11,631 tons; Colombia, 5,880 tons; Dutch Guiana, 5,853 tons; Venezuela, 5,036 tons.

That United States coal is finding its way in many new markets of the world is shown by the distribution of exports to countries other than those named above. Cuba took 1,145,775 tons; Panama, 616,777 tons; British West Indies 37,005 tons. Sweden 225,625 tons; Spain, 196,000 tons; France, 196,580 tons; Egypt, 161,000 tons; French West Africa, 122,314 tons; French West Indies 85,650 tons; Danish West Indies 75,194 tons; Greece 55,344 tons; Norway, 49,820 tons; Porto Rico 48,588 tons; Mexico 43,215 tons; Netherlands 36,115 tons; Bermuda 28,325 tons; Canary Isles 24,084 tons; Costa Rica 22,421 tons; Gibraltar 21,756 tons; Portugal 20,448 tons; Java, 16,181 tons; Azores 11,363 tons; Cape Verde Isles 10,837 tons; Morocco 9,365 tons; San Domingo 8,491 tons; Honduras 8,812 tons; Guatemala 7,830 tons; Central America 4,775 tons; Denmark 2,677 tons; England 1,478 tons; Greenland 801 tons; Newfoundland 60 tons.

Transportation Roads was the port of largest exports the total shipment being 5,248,850 tons. Baltimore followed with 1,896,606 tons and Philadelphia third with 1,044,403 tons. The totals given above do not cover the ports of New York, Charleston and Mobile which, if added, would show some increase in the tonnage, principally to the West Indies.

PARFITT WOMAN IS DEAD

Mrs. Anna Luena Succumb at the Age of 80

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 3.—The organ recital given at the St. Joseph's church last evening had a very good attendance and Stanislaw Sklinski, the well known Polish organist, did himself proud with excellent selections that he rendered. These were excellent selections given by J. Kinnat Gaudies, J. Kinnat, and Richard Kinnat, giving a very pretty baritone solo. Joseph Skerjan gave some excellent tenor selections and good vocal music was given by Mary, Patrick, the alto, and Miss McGee, contralto, and Miss McGee, soprano. There was a quartet and several very good duets on the program.

Mrs. Rhoadman has charge of the hospital while Miss Elizabeth Donohue, the superintendent, is visiting at Broadock. Miss Rhoadman is assistant superintendent and is a graduate of the local training school.

Mrs. Anna Lorens, aged 55 years, who was brought from her infirmary home to the Memorial Hospital some time ago, died at the hospital and was taken to the Reheimsman undertaking parlors. From there the body will be taken to the church of God, where funeral services will be held and interment will be made in the local cemetery today.

Mrs. D. L. George entertained the Reunion Presbyterians Missionary Society at her Smithfield home last yesterday afternoon. Miss Tach and her husband were the guests at the meeting. Mrs. R. Stevenson read a very interesting paper. Other readings were given by Miss Adelaide Ramsay, Miss Rose Neel, Miss Eva Stoutner and Mrs. R. Roederick. Following the readings very nice refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

The ladies of the United Presbyterian Missionary Society met at church yesterday and readings were given by Mrs. McClain and Mrs. Snyder. No refreshments were served yesterday.

Mrs. F. H. Smith, entered the Church of God Missionary Society, her Main street home yesterday. Fred Dunlop had charge of the session. Study Gillespie of Bogota, Mrs. Lucinda Miller gave a reading "The Boy Who Remembered," new members were received, delicious refreshments were served.

STEEL PRICES ADVANCE AND ORDERS PILE UP

General Advance in Wages in the Iron and Steel Industry, Foreign Trades Won't Increase Labor Supply.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The American Metal Market and Daily Steel Report say that the steel mills will not be able to meet tomorrow as follows:

The total contract obligations of the steel mills have probably decreased somewhat in the last few days when the market has been so depressed about adding to their obligations and have been shipping so much material.

This heavy supply of material in the hands of the mills has caused the contract shipping orders on hand to be undoubtedly increased, probably by as much as one-half of the tonnage.

Steel prices continue to show an advance tendency and within the next few weeks another advance of $1.00 to $1.25 on plates and $1.00 to $1.25 on shapes. Advances have been made on bars and angles, but a few days more and they probably be curtailed when lower priced material has been delivered and used, a condition which being met, the market may be quiet. In some lines of consumption, like automobile building, the price is practically no consideration of an important item, but the steel record is that about 25,000 freight cars were ordered in the first half of a very large number for a single month.

THE UPPER CONNELLSVILLE AND GREENSBURG REGIONS

Our Supply and Labor Conditions
Slightly Better, Which Increases
Transits.

Improved coal supply as compared with the previous week and, to the relief of the operators, somewhat easier labor conditions, enabled the Upper Connellsville and Greensburg-Connellsville regions to ship 12,275 tons during the week which ended Saturday, January 10. This compares with 11,200 tons in the average for 13(1) weeks, which was 38,783 tons, and for the average of the last quarter of 1915 which was 11,505 tons.

Reports from the region yesterday indicated that the threatened coal shortage, which has been a local one for some time in the south end of the region, had not yet reached the northern districts.

Both the Keaton Coal Company and the Jamison Coal Company, situated in the latebate and Greensburg districts, advanced wages on February 1, and are now paying $2.00 per ton. C. C. Frick Coal Company's rate is $1.75. The smaller companies of these districts are doing likewise.

Shipments from the districts for the week ending Saturday, January 27, are shown in the following table:

District	Wheat	Barley	Oats
Keaton	5,845	12,245	23,115
Jamison	1,945	3,245	10,415
Greensburg	1,345	2,245	10,415
Total	14,445	22,845	62,245

For the purposes of comparison, the average weekly shipments out of the districts for quarters during 1915 are as follows:

Quarter	Wheat	Barley	Oats
First	12,245	22,245	43,115
Second	12,245	22,245	43,115
Third	12,245	22,245	43,115

A TALE of RED ROSES

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

Copyright, 1914, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"It had better be or somebody goes to jail," he informed her. "That rock set me back the price of a house and lot."

"But, Mr. Sledge, I can't accept this," she earnestly assured him.

"Why not?" he demanded, studying her heavily. "You're to be my wife."

She was pale as death, her eyes were fixed on his, and she looked at him with a look that he never forgot.

"It's too large for a ring, for one thing," she evaded.

"Why?" he again rumbled.

She decided to leave out the question of good taste.

"You couldn't put a glove over it," she explained.

He looked at it reproachfully.

"Enough," he commented. "It's a peach, though, ain't it?"

Here was a proposition on which she could heartily agree.

"It's a beauty—a marvel!" she enthusiastically told him, ashamed, in some degree, that she so much admired the live thing as it lay in her palm.

She handed it over to him, and as his palm closed hers she felt the tingle of him for the first time. It was as if she had inadvertently touched an electric battery, and she jerked back her hand.

Between them they dropped the diamond, and it rolled under Fern's chair. Tommy Reeler picked it up.

"Well, public, Ben!" he approved and poured it into Fern's hand, where it lay glittering and glittering and glittering and would not be still.

"Oh, you darling!" Fern murmured to it. "Where did this drop from?"

"From your head," explained Sledge moodily. "Too big for a ring. Can't put a glove over it. I'm gonna have it set in a necklace."

Three days later the necklace came out, but by that time Molly had given up all hope of having Sledge out. The only thing she could do, she resolved, in a hilarious conference with Fern, would be to accept temporarily any emerald necklace she could get her hands on. After the need for fooling him was over, she would send them back, and this resolution, once it had been formed, the girls spent much time in the expectation of what the next surprise might be. Sledge was at least making the girls busy day and night, and he perfectly made, but equally earnestly gave both Molly and Fern more fun than they had ever known.

In the meantime, while Sledge and his cheerful co-workers, Tommy Reeler, were keeping the girls busy day and night, the preparations for the wedding were steadily on, as did the business preparations of Bert and Frank Marley. Thanksgiving day approached, and things began to focus themselves in the Marley home. The representative of the up state syndicate came to town on schedule. The event three days in going over the books of the company and examining into Marley's hands. Also, he looked up the matter of the franchise. The company had been given originally a twenty year city charter, which had been renewed for ten years previous, the present renewal having three years to run.

"It looks like the regular thing," he said to Marley. "I'm satisfied to give you thirty weeks straight through for your stock, take up your loans and allow you the difference in value; but, before I do business, I'll have to see Sledge about this franchise."

"It was part of our understanding that you were to stay away from him," insisted Marley. "You're presence and your credit are known. Sledge will do something destructive. He has it in for me and will wipe me right off the map."

"He might have it in for me, and I have to see what he can do."

"I'll make it $24 a share, and you see him afterward," offered Marley.

"Now, I'm bound to see him," declared Mr. Goldman, who was a very little man, of great energy and decisiveness. "Don't you worry. I'll see him in this game too long not to be able to cover my tracks."

Goldman's interview with Sledge was brief, concise and satisfactory, and he began by stating exactly who he was and whom he represented.

"We're looking for street car franchises," he explained, "and we've been advised that stock in the Ring City street railway is well worth picking up at its present price. Do you think so?"

"Uh-huh!" grinned Sledge. "None for sale, though."

"It does seem to be scarce," admitted Goldman. "But, I think what we can get if it looks good. I understand there's some talk of consolidation."

"Uh-huh!" grinned Sledge.

"That would probably bring the stock up to ten," judged Goldman.

"Can't tell," cautioned Sledge.

"Is there any trouble about renewing of franchises?" inquired Goldman, pondering deeply upon whether Sledge was remarkably frank or remarkably adept in leaving out.

"Guess not," said Sledge. "I got a date, and he went to keep it, waving his new Prince Albert and his slick hat."

his gray gloves and his red roach with such complacency as almost to induce Phil to give up his job.

Marley went home intoxicated with elation that night.

"Molly, girl, we're won!" he announced.

"Go ahead with your wedding tomorrow, and be as open about it as you like. Tomorrow I lift the mortgage on this house and sell it to Mordstone, who has offered to buy it as soon as I can give it to him unencumbered. I have already sold my stock and Bert's, including the amusement park; have delivered it, and here is the check."

"I told you we would win!" he exclaimed.

Molly and ran with the news to Fern.

"I'm sorry," confessed that young lady. "The fun's all over."

"It was fun, wasn't it?" admitted Molly, startled to find that she almost regretted the ending of it. "You still have Tommy, though."

"No," denied Fern. "I'll have to put Tommy in my pretty little blue car and send him back together. Poor Sledge!"

Here's where he gets the first blow," sighed Molly. "For have to go up and punch him that I'm ill and can't see him tonight nor tomorrow."

"Coward!" hissed Fern. "In mock tragedy and went in to telephone. She came back slowly. 'Poor fellow!' she said. 'Honestly, it's a shame, Molly. Molly herself was rather listless. She was standing in front of a huge vase containing Sledge's latest consignment of red roses. She broke off one of the most perfect specimens and placed it in her belt."

"Poor fellow!" she agreed; then bet eyes snapped. "I'm going to make him see me his dog."

"I couldn't dare," declared Fern. "I'd feel miserable every time he barked. I wonder what Sledge will do tonight."

CHAPTER XVII.

Interesting News For the Big Boy.

SLEDGE did what any other fool would have done. He telephoned three times that evening to see how Molly was, and when he went home he drove two miles out of the way to pass the house. He was equally solicitous the next morning, and he bunched his business with singular lack of concentration. The last two weeks had made him more Marley in love with Molly than ever, and he missed her as a morphia fiend does his "dope."

Goldman dropped in to see him at 2 o'clock.

"I want to talk consolidation with you, Mr. Sledge," he offered, sitting amiably in the visitor's chair.

"What consolidation?" asked Sledge.

"The street railway company. We have just purchased the controlling interest in the company now operating."

Sledge turned on him a slow glance.

"From Frank Marley?" he demanded.

"From Frank Marley," repeated Goldman pleasantly, looking as if he expected to be applauded for his cleverness.

"You're up against it," Sledge warned him. "Did you pay?"

"Gave Marley my check yesterday afternoon."

"Today's a holiday," advised Sledge. "Better stop payment."

"I don't understand," faltered Goldman.

"You will when you're stung," advised Sledge.

"I'm not stung," announced Goldman emphatically. "Our people don't take a chance on getting in wrong. They check out the difference in value."

"Go to it," ordered Sledge and punched the bell. "Where's Bendix?" he demanded of Adolph.

"Don't know. What him?"

"Quick!" ordered Sledge. "Why didn't you tell me you were after consolidation? Now you don't get anything."

"I get out—that's one check!" stated Goldman, rising and looking at his watch.

"How?" asked Sledge.

"That's my life. I'd be a sucker to lay myself liable by an admission of the knowledge."

"I want to know," persisted Sledge. "I want to be sure of it."

"You're guessing for Marley," surmised Goldman.

"Sure I am," agreed Sledge. "I don't want you stung. How do you crawl?"

"I do get back in after it's all straightened out?"

"I can have a chunk of it."

"They do any you stick to a promise like that," he mused. "Well, two weeks ago I had a written authority to make contracts, conclude business and give checks, in the name of my corporation. Day before yesterday that authority was revoked. We all ways do that."

"Marley got out from under," Sledge told him. "Why?"

"So the wedding could come off," returned Bendix, with an involuntary glance at the red rose boutonniere.

"The wedding?" repeated Sledge.

"Look here, Bendix, don't you kid me!"

"I wish I was," replied Bendix, showing, for the first time, his knowledge of how important all this was to the big boy. "Molly and Bert Gilder are to be married right off the bat."

No man had ever seen Sledge pale before.

"When?" he wheezed.

"Right away. This afternoon! They're being married now!"

Although there were to be no guests at the Marley wedding, the house was naturally in a state of much tension as the time approached. Molly, for two hours before the minister was to arrive, was engaged in the finishing touches of her toilet, which was fully as elaborate, though not so conventional, as if the function was to be the most formal one possible, and her maid, from one end to the other, was cluttered with the inevitable toilet accessories, with two maids and Fern Burbank, the three latter articles being in a state closely bordering on hysteria.

Downstairs Bert Gilder wandered from room to room feeling more and more that if he were an unbidden guest at somebody else's wedding, his only human companion being an occasional contact with the thin-legged butler, who, under the cloak of the occasion, had opened a surreptitious bottle of champagne in the pantry, and there being plenty of room in his intellect, had succumbed to the inevitable gloom of the occasion.

"The most busy occupied one of all, however, was Frank Marley, who, from immediately after breakfast, had ensconced himself in his den, where he was not only finishing his connection with many odds and ends of local business and social institutions, writing checks and friendly notes all the morning.

He even had his lunch brought in to him, for, trust to him, he preferred rather to be alone than to be with Bert on this particular day. He felt somehow as if he could never be quite

"Right away. This afternoon! They're being married now!"

In accord with the man who was to take Fern, his motherless Molly, and he tried to quiet the fear for her which arose in him. Moreover, Bert represented the new life which stretched before him, and he was not quite ready to let it go that the time had come. He was in a dangerous mood, the uproot of trees. He had lived the best years of his life in this city, had worked here, and had married here, and had built up his fortunes here, and here had occupied a position of honor and respect. And, try as he would, he could not look with too much confidence upon believing the same thing as a stranger in a strange place.

world is one who finds a wife capable of directing him and generous enough to let him think he is doing it all himself."

"That's a new idea to me," pondered Bert complacently through condensation only as he stroked his carefully curled mustache and reflected upon his own ability.

"The worst of it is you have to grow old to realize it," Marley gently hinted.

"I was a smart man until my wife died. Won't you have a drink?"

"No, thanks," refused Bert, walking disconsolately to the library. "I promised Molly the minister shouldn't snail it on my breath."

"Afterward, then," laughed Marley, and, returning to his den, closed the telephone rang.

"Hello, Marley!" hailed the voice of Willie Walters. "Had your franchise canceled and returned?"

"Not needed it," replied Marley, reflecting that there was no need of the franchise worry. "The thing never was."

"What do you mean?"

"The Alorton bill was put through its final passage last night," explained Marley. "I know all about that."

"You don't seem to have got in early on the advantages," remarked Walters, scanning a story. "It's a law now, operative from its passage."

"It won't hurt anybody," chuckled Marley. "There wasn't much of importance in it."

"Not?" queried Walters. "Just enough to make a political corpse of Alorton. The bill embodied that thirty year franchise clause on his股份, that was it."

"Franchise clause? I don't understand."

"I thought you didn't know the provisions of the bill," went on Walters, delighted to have unearthed a new angle to the story. "The bill automatically extends all franchises granted within the last ten years to an extra fifty years of lifetime on the same terms as their original charters."

"Good!" returned Marley. "All my franchises have been renewed within the last ten years."

"Now I know you've been asleep," rejoined Walters, not that he had any enmity for Marley, but merely that he liked a good story. "The bill specifically does not apply to renewals, but to original franchises. Why, your absolute expiry in three years. If that's the case, about the prospects and the social triumphs which I know are waiting for you, and you'll have a polished husband, of whom you can always be proud, and just bushes and bushes of love, of course."

"Of course," agreed Marley, looking at the little Dresden clock on the mantel.

"Goodness, Fern, the minister is due to arrive in ten minutes, and Jessie Peters isn't here yet!"

"If she knew the importance of my informal invitation to call this afternoon she'd have been here hours ago," laughed Fern. "I don't wonder, Molly. You mustn't even see Bert until you walk in the parlor on your father's arm and take him for better or ill, for better."

"You don't seem any too hopeful," laughed Molly, looking longingly at the clock, but remembering her gorgeous gown. "I don't believe you like Bert very well."

"Indeed I do!" remonstrated Fern almost too quickly. "He's still the handsomest fellow I ever saw—tall and big and fine looking and the very best dancer I ever swung across a floor with. I just couldn't get through enough when I first came."

"Yes, I was jealous of you," confessed Molly. "Bert is a fine dancer."

"All the girls will be envious of you," went on Fern, determined to say nice things. "You should be very happy. Molly, about the new home and the new business prospects and the social triumphs which I know are waiting for you, and you'll have a polished husband, of whom you can always be proud, and just bushes and bushes of love, of course."

"Of course," agreed Molly, looking at the little Dresden clock on the mantel.

COKE MARKET STRONG AT $3.00 TO $3.25 WITH A VERY FAIR CAR SUPPLY COMING

And a Free Movement From the Ovens to the Furnaces.

WAGES, LABOR AND CONTRACTS

Some Doubts as to the Effect of the Advance in Coke Workers' Wages.
The Iron Quiet but Very Still.
Basic Paying Movement Predicted.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
FEBRUARY, Feb. 2.—The movement of coke to furnaces is much more satisfactory than it was a fortnight ago, continuing the improved conditions that were noted in last report. There was both a clearing up of the coke delayed in transit and an improvement in the supply of coke to almost normal proportions.

Ten days or more of a fair car supply in the Connelville region have not operated to make coke plentiful. Offerings of spot coke are very limited. While the demand is relatively light it is evidently sufficient to keep the market well above the level at which contracts were made for the year or half year. There are rumors that in the past week there have been two or three requests for temporary suspensions of coke shipments on contract, but if there really have been suspensions the outcome is not known. The wage advance which became effective yesterday is not expected in Pittsburgh coke circles to affect materially the total supply of coke available. It may tend to hold men in the region or to bring a few men into it, but on the other hand operators point out that with higher pay the men may not work as assiduously. The advance of about one month ago the coke contract picture began to clear about four months after the contracts were made. When contract prices were developed last September there was no definite expectation that the coke would be subject to a higher labor cost than obtained at that time.

The pig iron market has continued remarkably quiet, and the only favorable thing that can be said about the market situation at the moment is the important one that the continued absence of demand has not operated to soften prices, which are quoted as stiff as formerly in some quarters.

COKE TRADING SUMMARY.

Connellsville coke trade had a free movement last week. Car supply was fair and so car rates. Output rose to 12,000 tons. The rising seems to be going at a good rate. A break in car supply was reported yesterday, but it is not considered threatening. There are 80,000 of the coke on hand in the region. Active offers have been delayed during the past week and 10,000 more workers found to man them. Labor has come by absorption. Last week over 500 acres were filed, including 100 at Valley, a 100 at Irons, and 100 at Workman's. Compensation and 200 tons of coke and coke are being offered. They can pass it on. Spot coke is at $1.00, $1.25. Offerings are very limited, but demand is relatively light. The pig iron market conditions are strong. The iron market is quiet but general buying movement in basic iron is expected this month.

and shipping conditions should be better. Primary coke continues strong. The market as a whole is quotable as follows:

Spot furnace $1.00 to $1.25
Furnace, to July $2.50 to $2.75
Spot foundry $1.00 to $1.25
Contract foundry $1.25 to $1.50

Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous mazes you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head. To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it continues to slowly injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and clog them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes.

Scott's is pleasant to take.

ELECTRICAL FURNACES

For Steel Making Growing Rapidly in Europe (Continued from page 7). The discovery through actual practice that the electrical furnace permits the manufacture of high speed steel at a much lower cost than through the crucible process has led to the placing of contracts for five or more furnaces since the first of January. In fact, the new department of the American Bridge Company now constructing these furnaces anticipates that its full capacity for this manufacture will be sold in a short time.

It is understood that from five to 10 per cent of tungsten is required for the manufacture of tool steel by the electrical process whereas ordinarily from 15 to 20 per cent of tungsten is required. When it is recalled that tungsten is now commanding as to eight dollars per pound, whereas before the war it was sold at 75c per pound, it is small wonder that the electrical process has suddenly grown very popular.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS ON THE SHEEPSKIN BEING DISCUSSED

New Bridges to be Erected and the Line May be Double Tracked.

FASTER PASSENGER TRAINS

Heavy Tonnage Will Soon Be Coming
Over the Line as a Result of Agreement
With the Western Maryland
Turntable Has as Yet Not Arrived.

It is reported that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is completing plans for the construction of bridges on its line between Fairmont and Connelville, to eliminate curves and speed up passenger service.

It will be necessary to make the time between Fairmont and Pittsburgh faster or in the railroad's opinion, in order to compete with the Monongahela line. A three and a half hour service will be inaugurated and to accomplish this it will be necessary to cut off all extra distance made by the present curves by erecting the bridges and establishing new grades.

It is also thought that with the new bridges will come the double tracking of the line between Fairmont and Connelville. This is likely to become necessary because of the agreement made between the Western Maryland and Baltimore & Ohio railroads by which the former is to carry coal from the Nelson's Run region on the latter's track.

EXAMINING EMPLOYEES
The Western Maryland railway company is conducting an examination of all its trainmen, dispatchers and operators. The examination was begun in Lancaster last October and examinations are working west. D. T. Leffler of Cumberland, and R. W. Hupner of Hagerstown are in charge of the examining crew and are experienced employees.

BIG PEACH CROP
Transporting the peach crops of Maryland and West Virginia proved $139,371.25 for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad last year, according to reports made by the traffic department. A new record of 1,200 railroads of peaches handled last year was made as against 115 from the same territory the previous year which indicates the development of fruit growing in the eastern sections near many of the country's larger markets.

L. T. Brown, a bookman of the Pittsburgh division, is laying off for a few days.

USE NEW LAMPS
The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is using stronger Mazda lamps at the shops and yards of the company at Fairmont. The old lamps that were formerly used and which are still the yards have been done away with at that place.

ELASTICS
The new ten table again failed to make yesterday. Although it was hoped to get the table in this week it will not be possible to do so unless it should arrive some time today, and then the job may not be finished by Monday.

G. C. Small, a bailman on the Connelville division, is off for a short time.

Frank Hart, a freeman on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, living at Smithfield, was visiting friends here yesterday.

John Blair, night chief caller, was off duty last night on account of a sore throat.

Before leaving Brunswick, former General Foreman J. P. Jines of the Baltimore & Ohio shops at Brunswick, presented his clerk, Michael Casey, with a five-passenger Pullman automobile as a token of his appreciation of his faithful services.

P. Hines, truck supervisor of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, left last evening for Philadelphia where he will to inspect business.

Revised plans for the new Pennsylvania freight station at Harrisburg provide for a new four story structure in place of a one-story building. Work on the building will commence about April 1.

R. C. Whitmore, a caller of the Baltimore & Ohio, is off duty.

C. M. Stone, a trainmaster of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, was visiting friends and relatives in Connelville yesterday.

"Quitting" the Clothing Business? INDEED NOT!

WHY SHOULD WE? Why should anyone "quit" such a large and important department? Merchants, these times, do not discontinue large, progressive and successful departments. Neither do they increase any departments at the expense of another, if the latter is successful and up to the standard. Such an increase or expansion would, in fact, be contradictory or negative in its very nature. An internal expansion perhaps, but what of the store as a unit?

At this store, no emergency has arisen to cause any such radical action. No accumulation of aged and almost worthless stocks to be closed out. No doubtful merchandise to be foisted upon the public.

We attribute the unusual success of our Men's Clothing and Furnishings Departments largely to the fact that stocks are never permitted to accumulate, but are kept constantly moving, thus enabling us to show only newer and better styles. Of course the better quality of Hirsch-Wickwire, Michaels-Stern and Society Brand Clothes, and the much greater volume of our business contribute much toward making this possible.

No "Scare-Head" Advertising needed; no yellow, red, or green signs needed to guide you. The deep-rooted instinct of every man to obtain correct styles and the best possible value for his money is all that's needed to direct him to this store.

So we're still "on deck"—still very much in the Men's and Boys' Clothing Business. Still selling clothing to the best dressed men and young men of Connelville—and likely to be for years to come.

We might just add that what applies to our Clothing Department applies equally as well to EVERY department in this foremost store.

For the Bad Days of Winter and Early Spring

—Your Boys need something in the way of a Coat which will afford real protection from both the rain and cold. We are showing a RAIN OUTFIT especially well suited to this purpose. Consists of a Hat and Cap to match. Good quality, and serviceable. Very modestly priced $3.00, and undoubtedly superior to mail-order products at the same price.

Showing New Spring Suits for Boys

—New Models slightly different in their general lines. Very neat and attractive patterns. Good materials. We mention especially the famous ELK JUNIOR SUIT at $5. Many other styles at $3.50 to $10. Unusually good Blue Serge Suits at $5.00.

NATIONAL PAY-UP WEEK FEBRUARY 21 TO 26, 1916

"Let's Pass Prosperity Around"

Our community has joined hands with thousands of other communities in the United States to increase the nation's prosperity and at the same time distribute it so that all will be benefited.

We are all dependent upon each other. No one class can gain at the expense of all the others. The factories cannot run without market for their goods.

The employees cannot live without this market. The farmer can make no money if there is none to buy his surplus products. As the farmer prospers, all prosper. As the other commercial interests of the country prosper, the farmer prospers. We all must look to each other for our livings.

If we can turn into the channels of business the millions of dollars we all owe each other, so that we can again use these dollars to buy more things we need—every man who is supplying a need will prosper.

That is the object of NATIONAL PAY UP WEEK, February 21 to 26.

YOU CAN HELP and you can be helped if you will pay up during this week. We, the business men of Connelville, have pledged ourselves to pay our bills at this time. Let's all work together.
